Schoolboy hero

Andrew Nelson, an 18- year- old schoolboy from Staffordshire, yesterday saved four people from a helicopter crash in which two people died. He was playing football at school when his friend Tony saw helicopter crash in a nearby field. Immediately Andrew ran a mile to get to the scene of the accident. Andrew, whose father is a flying instructor, knew the helicopter was in danger of exploding, but he ran inside and pulled out four adults, one after the other. Meanwhile, the head teacher of his school phoned for an ambulance and the fire brigade. "They are lucky to be alive", said the Chief Fire Officer.
