1. Purpose

The present organisational guidelines shall govern the organisation of the admission procedure for studies commencing in the Summer Semester 2024/2025 and the Winter Semester 2025/2026.

2. Scope

The present guidelines shall apply to the Study Affairs Department staff in preparing and implementing the admission procedure.

3. Admission Requirements and Deadlines

3.1. Bachelor's study programme B0413P050002 Economics and Management

Admission to the Bachelor's degree programme in Economics and Management is subject to completing a full-time secondary education or a full-time vocational secondary education.

Any secondary school graduate may become a student if they:

1. Submit a certified copy of their school leaving certificate;
2. Pay the admission fee;
3. Were not subject to any disciplinary proceedings during their previous studies at Škoda Vysoká škola o.p.s. used by the Vice-Chancellor to issue a decision on exclusion from studies against which the student has not appealed or, following their appeal, the Rector has not mitigated the sanction mentioned above.

Applicants are admitted to study based on fulfilling the conditions specified above. An applicant becomes a school student on the date of their enrolment. There are no entrance examinations.

The University's Rector decides on admission to study in the study programme. The decision on admission to the study shall be issued in writing within 30 days of verification of the conditions for the admission. The invitation to enrol in the study programme shall be sent to the applicant together with the admission decision or later separately.

3.7. Bachelor's study programme B0413P050006 Business Administration

Admission to the Bachelor's degree programme in Business Administration is subject to completing a full-time secondary education or a full-time vocational secondary education.

Any secondary school graduate may become a student if they:

1. Submit a certified copy of their school leaving certificate;
2. Pay the admission fee;
3. Were not subject to any disciplinary proceedings during their previous studies at Škoda Vysoká škola o.p.s. used by the Vice-Chancellor to issue a decision on exclusion from studies against which the student has not appealed or, following their appeal, the Rector has not mitigated the sanction mentioned above.
4. Passed an entrance examination to assess their motivation to study, verifying the study prerequisites and the level of general knowledge and competencies necessary for study in the study programme with a grade of "Passed".
5. Have documented language proficiency at the B2 SERR level in English or have passed an entrance examination verifying language proficiency at such level with a grade of "Passed".

The admission procedure shall include an entrance examination verifying the level of knowledge and competencies for study in the given programme. The admission examination shall take the form of a guided structured interview with the applicant, conducted in English, with the aim of assessing the applicant's motivation to study, verifying study prerequisites and the level of general knowledge and competencies necessary for study in the study programme. The content and structure of the examination shall be determined and approved by the programme guarantor. The interview shall be conducted by the study programme guarantor or an academic staff member designated by the study programme guarantor. The interview is either in person or on-line (via MS Teams).

The result of the admission examination verifying the level of knowledge and competencies for study in a given study programme shall be a “Passed” or “Failed” grade.

The admission examination shall also include verification of the language proficiency for the study unless the applicant proves them by an internationally recognised certificate according to the SERR or proof of passing a language examination issued by another institution authorised to conduct language examinations.

A B2 level of English is required for admission to the programme.

Language proficiency shall be assessed by means of an in-house Comprehensive Language Assessment testing that encompasses all language skills: reading, listening, writing and speaking in English.

The test includes:

- a) An on-line test focusing on the use of language in practice and listening,
- b) A 60-minute on-line session with an examiner to test reading, speaking and writing skills.

The result of the admission test verifying language aptitude for study shall be a “Passed” or “Failed” grade.

Both parts of the entrance examination shall be the subject of a protocol.

Applicants are admitted to study based on fulfilling the above conditions 1. - 5.

The University’s Rector decides on the admission to study in the study programme. The decision on admission to studies shall be issued in writing within 30 days of verification of the conditions for the admission. The invitation to enrol in the study programme shall be sent to the applicant together with the admission decision or later separately.

5. Applicants with special educational needs

Admission to the study of applicants with special educational needs is subject to the decision of the Rector based on an assessment of whether the University can provide them with study support in relation to the specific nature of their educational needs. The University shall follow the Directive of the Rector on Study Support for Applicants and Students with Special Educational Needs. The University recommends that applicants with special educational needs contact the Study Affairs Department prior to submitting an application for studies (or the International Office for international applicants). The Study Affairs Department, in cooperation with other University departments, will assess whether the University can provide them with study support and ensure the conditions for study in their chosen study programme or specialisation.
